About your Treadmill Stress Test:

When you arrive for your appointment the technologist will first complete medical history and consent forms with you. The technologist will then attach adhesive leads to your chest and hook you up to the EKG machine. We will record your baseline parameters including heart rate and blood pressure. Our office follows the standardized exercise protocols of increasing speed and increasing elevation to attain the appropriate target heart rate for your age. Once finished exercising, you will continue to be monitored until your baseline levels are achieved. After our cardiologists read your results, our office will send a copy of the findings to your primary care physician.

The entire test will take approximately 30-45 minutes.
